us congratulate Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones upon the happy event expected later this year, before joining in the speculation about titles the Royal baby will receive. Most people reckon it unthinkable that a commoner should ascend to the throne of Britain, but it would take an unthinkable disaster to place Princess Margaret's child there, for the expected baby will be fifth in line of succession. Nevertheless, tradition must have its place, and a child in direct line to the Royal throne must have a title. has been explained by Cyril Hankinson, Editor of Debrett's Peer-Britain's record of blue blood, that the Queen could bestow a title on the child when it is born.

Regarded as a further boost economy

New York, May 28. President Kennedy's special State of the Union message to Congress was seen as a means toward creating a climate where continued economic growth would be not only desirable but necessary — if all the objectives outlined in the message are to be met.

TEXTILES WEEKLY REVIEW

New York, May 28, The cotton gray goods market last week continued to be a lackadaiscal affair, holding to the dull pattern existing since mid-February.

A main siumbling block to new business has been a tightening impasse between buyers and sellers over prices.

Consumers continued to probe on third and fourth quarter deliveries, looking for price concessions. Conversely, weavers said they could not cut prices in face of the certainty of higher prices for raw cotton, under the government support programme August 1. And the new minimum wage law to become effective in September.

THE TROUBLE

The trouble with negotiating with Mr Khrushchev they said, was that "the Soviets are negotiating for world domination while we have been negotiating for world peace."

"These are two completely incompatible objectives," they said, "they have destoyed all hope of progress."

"It should be self-evident that so long as the Soviet union adheres to its goal of world dominution, its talk of peaceful coexistence means nothing. It should be made clear to Mr Khrushchev that we fully realise this and that until there is a real basis for negotiations, none will be attempted."

Senator Thruston Morten of Ropublican Kentucky, Party's outgoing Chairman, viewed the Vienna meeting with less concern.

Weighing machines will tour the farms

London. CATTLE breeders are asking the Government to put up about £20,000 for a trial-byweight scheme to improve Britain's beef.

They want to buy about 12 mobile weighing machines to start the world's first national recording scheme for beef

These machines will tour the farms to weigh young beef bulls, and later their calves, to find the animals that put on weight fastest in the right

The system is already being tried out on a small scale in Britain but the National Farmers' Union and the National defeat in Ipoh came as no Cattle Breeders' Association want it to be made available to every go ahead farmer.

So they are setting up a working party to plan a Government-backed development corporation which will organise the weighings regionally and Ipoh by the PPP as a reflection | keep the records.

BY LOOKS

Up to now; the breeding of pedigree beef cattle has been based mainly on standards of appearance. But the best-looking bulls do not always put on weight fastest, and commercial farmers want animals which will produce beefy, quickgrowing calves.

The trial-by-weight scheme will help breeders to find the most profitable animals. Mr Christopher Soames, Minister of Agriculture, keen on the idea, and he meeting representatives of 23 breed societies next week to discuss details. Said Mr Kenneth Bawtry, Malays in the country beef committee chairman of the breeders' association: "We "surhave had the greatest co-operation from the Ministry and Mr Soames wants the scheme to be Federal Prime Minister, working in the autumn.

"We hope to cover 150 to 200 herds a year, weighing cattle two or more times a year. "It will help us to compare the Charollais, which the Gov-At the moment very few ernment is importing from France, with our own breeds."

turbulent country. To the vast mass of Persians, the dancing girls are the symbol of corruption of their land. They sum up the situation in a ccuntry where the huge revenues from oil (£300 million lust year) go to make fortunes for a few instead of benefits for the many. Ostentatious private homes with kidney-shaped swimming pools and six-car garages are built while children as young as six work in carpet factories for as little as sixpence a day.

OUTSPOKEN CRITIC

No man knows the details of these conditions better than Amini himself. He is a rich man, a-wealthy landowner and comes from a wealthy family. He is also a man who has demonstrably kept his hands clean. For many years he has been an outspoken critic of corruption in official circles. His critleism brought him into conflict with the authorities and contri-. cigarettes for the purpose of seeing if this bad habit buted to his replacement at the Persian Embassy in Washington in 1958. Amini, a thick-lipped. smiling, small-chinned man,

His public service started in the Customs department, which he became head in 1939. Three years later, he was appointed secretary to the Prime Minister.

CABINET ROW

In 1951 he was back in his post again in the Sweden, Dehmark (Parcel Mail) 1 Mossadeq administration.

Twice (in 1953 and 1955) he was Minister of Finance, and for part of 1955 he was Minister of Justice before his appointment to the embassy in Washington.

At the Finance Ministry, Amini established his reputation as a hard worker and a man of integrity—a reputation which is said to have brought him into conflict with the Shah.

DIPLOMATIC SKILL

His international . standing was consolidated in 1954 during the talks between the Persian Government and the British-American consortium to settle the oil problems created by the discredited Messadeq regime. He led the Persian delegation and won high praise for his skill in diplomacy.

TO CLEAR MY NAME -- I'VE NEVER EVADED TAXES'

TT was the full gracious-living scene. Two cars, a Ford living room with its flowered white curtains and full-length and a Bentley, in the drive; two gardeners with two glass will opening out on the lawnmowers pottering about two lawns; the daughter of the chestnut-shaded terrice. The house feeding cocktail nuts to a tame Belgian hare, and pressured elegance fresh the rest of us wistfully sipping aperitifs.

"We just felt like drinks this morning," sighed Jack Hawkins heavily, and I knew what he meant—there's nothing like losing a lot of money to make you feel reckless with what's left.

"Of course it is. I'd prefer to try to clear my name. I'm not a person who's ever evaded my taxes—I mean dammit, even the year I earned £90,000 it all came down to the same thing after tax. No, if I wanted to declar taxes, there are easier tucked into an immaculate open-necked shirt.

Recently, after a three-round fight ways than this with the Inland Revenue, costing some with the Inland Revenue, costing some £2,000, three Appeal Court judges ruled that the £500 in dividends paid to his children by "a company formed to exploit the actor's talents" should be represented as Mr. Hardinals and I get fibrositis. ## Wong Chi-keung's goal the highlight of a typical end-of-season match

By I. M. MacTAVISH

Ten minutes after the interval in this First Division match played at Carbline Hill yesterday South China moved down the left wing. Centre- Rung Wah-kit (Pollee) ...... 4.900 forward Lee Tak-wai slipped a beautiful pass along the line to Mok Chun-wah. The little winger chipped a neat lob into the middle and it travelled from Kwok Yau to Ho Cheung-yau. The champions' skip-per beat his man as clean as a whistle, then rolled the ball accurately into the path of Wong Chi-keung who took two steps and, from Rolled the line to Mok Chun-wali (SCAA) ( into the path of Wong Chi-keung who took two steps and, from twenty yards, hit a wonderful angular drive into the net. Not a Tung Wah boot, body or hand got within a yard of the ball from start to finish.

That typical South China move, which produced one of the few highlights of the day, gave the Caroline Hill boys a 4-1 lead and virtually finished the game as a serious contest. In the end they beat Tung Wah comfortably by five goals to two.

Brabham victory the '500' Americans

Indianapolis, May 28. If Australian Jack Brabham drives his tiny green English Cooper Climax to victory in Tuesday's Golden Anniversary 500mile motor race, he will jar both American racing and advertising prestige.

It has been 45 years since a foreigner won this race, but a Brabham conquest of 32-hard-charging American drivers also would be a big jolt to U.S. accessory manufacturers who make big money from the winner who takes their products past the checkered flag.
